Town Rebuffs Dollar General Project

Sewer Allocation Denied on 3-2 Vote

By Dick Myers

The Commissioners of Leonardtown have put a significant stumbling block in the way of the request for a new Dollar General Store in town. On a 3-2 vote, the commissioners denied the use of one Equivalent Dwelling Unit (EDU) from the capacity of the town's sewage treatment plant.

The capacity of the plant is being reserved for the town's historic downtown and for infill development. In rejecting the request, the commissioners ruled the proposal didn't meet the criteria for tapping into the

The proposed Dollar General would have been the second in the Leonardtown area, but the first within town. It would have been the first commercial development on the stretch of Route 5 that was built to bypass the downtown. It was proposed to be located on a vacant piece of land that is part of the Academy Hills development at the Cedar Lane Road intersection with

The property is commercially zoned and had previously been proposed for a doctor's office that didn't materialize.

Mayor Dan Burris, who only votes to break a tie, led the discussion with a strong statement against issuing the EDU. Noting the criteria that is intended to encourage a walkable downtown, Burris said, "This project does not meet any of these goals."

The developer's architectural/engineering consultant, Jeffrey Harman of Becker Morgan Group, argued that Dollar General Stores usually have shoppers with quick in-and-out trips, so the use of bathrooms is minimal. He argued that denying the request would be tantamount to taking away development rights.

But Burris said it would only be until the town sewage treatment plant is increased in capacity.

The town meeting room was packed with people interested in the decision, fueled by social media postings opposing the project. The decision came on a 3-2 vote, with Commissioners Jay Mattingly and Mary Maday Slade supporting the Dollar General request.

The decision was followed immediately by another request for additional sewer allocation. The proposed Olde Towne Auto project at the Point Lookout Road (MD 5) and Washington Street (MD 245) intersection has an existing EDU for the vacant home on the property that will be demolished. Because of the proposed square footage of the building, they were seeking an additional EDU. That was denied, also on a 3-2 vote, with Slade and Councilman Hayden Hammett supporting the request.

Town Administrator Laschelle McKay said she hoped to be able to work with the business owner to bring the project within the guidelines for only needing one EDU.

McKay said the business will be unique. They will be an indoor showroom for selling classic cars, which will be sold on consignment and the sales will be consummated elsewhere. The showroom will only be open to the public on Saturdays.

There also will be a tag and title business there. McKay said the business would be very low impact with minimal additional traffic at that busy intersection.

McKay said the building would be 7,000 square feet and will be an exact replica of one in Great Mills across from the Great Mills Trading Post.

The Olde Towne Auto project is on the agenda for the town planning commission at their Aug. 19 meeting at 4 p.m.

Webster Field's 'Benevolent Dictator' Remembered

Bob Waxman Passes Away at Age of 93

By Dick Myers, Editor and Guy Leonard, Staff Reporter

He was known affectionately as the "Mayor of Webster Field" although he often called himself the "benevolent dictator" of that Navy facility in St. Inigoes. The accolades for Bob Waxman were well-earned during his 55 years at helm at the facility that was known by different names over time. Waxman, 93, passed away last week.

It was Waxman's entrepreneurial spirit that will leave its lasting footprint on the facility and the St. Mary's County community. In an interview with Navy public affairs, Waxman said, "We ran it as a business and our business was electronics. We never had the luxury of anyone handing us programs. If we wanted to stay working, we had to go out and bring in our own work." During his tenure Webster Field's budget soured from $300,000 to $600 million.

That business attitude in the end saved the day for Webster Field which was slated for closure during the 1993 BRAC (Base Realignment and Closure). Rep. Steny Hoyer delivered Waxman's message loud and clear, Congress listened, and the decision was overturned and Webster Field continues to flourish as a center for unmanned aircraft

Hoyer, upon learning of Waxman's passing, issued the following statement: "I was deeply saddened to learn of the passing of my good friend and a great American, Bob Waxman. Bob was an outstanding public servant who served our nation for over five decades at Patuxent River and Webster Field

"Under his leadership, Webster Field saw unprecedented growth and expansion and survived five rounds of base closures and realignments. I worked closely with Bob to prevent the closure of Webster Field, and I can say with confidence that the installation would not be what it is today without his leadership and his tireless efforts to grow its business and ensure that the federal government knew how essential the base and its work was to the military. Bob's tireless advocacy and passion for Webster Field ensured that thousands of jobs in Southern Maryland were protected. He was known affectionately by his colleagues as the Mayor of Webster Field, and he cared deeply about the base and its employees.

"Bob was one of the finest people I've ever met, and I'll miss him greatly. My thoughts are with his many friends and family, and I join in remembering the significant, lasting impact he had on our county, our state, and our nation."

Todd Morgan, St. Mary's County Commissioner and long-time luminary in the defense contractor field, said Bob Waxman would be sorely missed.

"He was 93 and we're sad to see him go," Morgan told The County Times. "He had the best interests of the Navy and community in his heart and his head."

"He was a businessman first," Morgan said of Waxman, noting his no-nonsense approach to getting work done to support the warfighter.

"He ran it like a business; you were encouraged to take risks

"He really had an entrepreneurial spirit."

Morgan said Waxman often fought the bureaucracy in his mission to get critical equipment for the warfighters.

"It was about the warfighter and what they needed that Webster Field could provide," Morgan said.

Waxman's leadership fostered a family environment at Webster Field, Morgan said, but competition to get the best results as well.

"It was collegial and competitive," Morgan said. "He was the mayor of St. Inigoes.

"And he really did a good job."

Planners Delay Townhouse Project

The St. Mary's County Planning Commission has deferred a decision on a concept site plan for a proposed 60unit townhouse development in Great Mills.

The townhouse project would be the fifth and final section of Bay Ridge Estates, a development which has been in existence for quite some time. It's at the intersection of Point Lookout Road (MD Route 5), a state road, and Bay Ridge Road, a county road. Bay Ridge Road bisects the community with development on both sides. The road is eventually intended to be extended to parallel Great Mills Road

The project was delayed over concerns about that intersection, which commission members and residents say becomes clogged during rush hours. The intersection is just a short distance from the bottleneck at Route 5 and Great Mills Road, with traffic in evenings often backed up to Bay Ridge Road.

The several residents who spoke noted the lack of sidewalks on Bay Ridge Road, forcing then to walk on the shoulders if they want to go to the Sheetz on Great Mills Road. The developers representative Billy Mahaffey of Mahaffey and Associates said the developer proposes sidewalks at the intersection along the property line of the townhouse development.

There was the desire on the part of the planners for the intersection to be widened to three lanes to make it easier for traffic to exit the community during rush hours. The desire to accomplish that could be exacerbated by the fact that the right of way on one side of the road appears to be owned by a defunct homeowner's association.

Director of Public Works and Transportation John Deatrick said there are no plans currently on the books to improve Bay Ridge Road, although they could be added if it was the county's desire. He said any improvements would take five years.

Mahaffey said he believed there was enough existing right-of-way at the intersection to accomplish widening it to three lanes.

The commission thus voted to delay any decision until their August 26 meeting to give the developer time either to submit plans for the widening or enter into discussion to purchase back that right of way from however owns it.

The Section 5 project represents a 50-percent reduction in the number of proposed units from an earlier iteration that included condominiums and apartment units. The 6.2-acre parcel is zoned Residential-High Density.

New Restaurant Coming to Leonardtown

By Dick Myers Editor

A new restaurant is coming to Leonardtown in a space that has an iconic history as an eatery. It'll be called Sweetbay Restaurant and Bar and will occupy the town square location that in recent times has been a pet store but before that was the home of Bailey's Restaurant.

Developer Mike Mummaugh and several partners bought the building at 22860 Washington Street and converted the top two floors into apartments. But their quest for a restaurant to occupy the ground floor and basement has been unsuccessful until now.

One of Mummaugh's partners, Susan Dyer was friends with Washington, DC restauranteur Peter Lupo, who operates several establishments, including Magnolia Kitchen and Bar. He visited, and a deal was struck in which he would be partner in the operation with eight other people.

Dyer explained that the name Sweetbay came from an investigation of the most prevalent local variety of magnolia in St. Mary's County, and it turned out to be the Sweetbay, which was also perfect for her affinity with Breton Bay just down the wharf hill.

Dyer said the restaurant is expected to open in November. She described the cuisine as Continental American, not "a super high end." The ambience will be casual upscale with natural lighting.

The Leonardtown Commissioners at their Aug. 12 meeting recommended approval of a liquor license for the new restaurant and that request will be heard in September by the county liquor board. At that meeting Dyer said they will be requesting outside seating as well.

Also, at the Aug. 12 meeting, the council approved adding wineries, distilleries and breweries to several zoning categories. Developer Wayne Davis said he has had inquiries for his new building on Route 5 that could benefit from the change.

The change is part of the town's effort to enhance its image as a tourist attraction and to expand upon its growing reputation as a dining destination.

Lexington Park Drug Dealer Sentenced Distributing Drugs Resulted in a Death

U.S. District Judge Paul W. Grimm on Aug. 13 sentenced Keino Ferrez Dorsey, a/k/a B, age 46, of Lexington Park to 186 months in federal prison, followed by three years of supervised release, for distribution of heroin, fentanyl, and carfentanil, resulting in the death of a victim, and possession with intent to distribute heroin, fentanyl, para-fluoroisobutyryl fentanyl, and cocaine. Dorsey had previously been convicted of a felony drug distribution offense.

The sentence was announced by United States Attorney for the District of Maryland Robert K. Hur; Special Agent in Charge Jesse R. Fong of the Drug Enforcement Administration - Washington Field Division; Special Agent in Charge John Eisert of U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement's (ICE) Homeland Security Investigations (HSI) Baltimore; Chief Henry P. Stawinski III of the Prince George's County Police Department; St. Mary's County Sheriff Tim Cameron; and Chief Barry M. Barnard of the Prince William County (Virginia) Police Department.

"The drugs distributed by Keino Dorsey were mixed with fentanyl and fentanyl analogues, unbeknownst to the victim, who died almost immediately after ingesting the drugs," said U.S. Attorney Robert K. Hur. "Dorsey will now face more than 15 years in federal prison, where there is no parole—ever. Drug traffickers are on notice that dealing in fentanyl increases their odds of federal prosecution. We must do everything we can to reduce overdose deaths from fentanyl and from all opioids."

According to Dorsey's plea agreement, Dorsey and Victim A had known each other for approximately three years, during which Dorsey sold heroin and other drugs to Victim A. On October 17, 2017, Dorsey and Victim A communicated via text message and phone calls. Victim A and others traveled to Dorsey's apartment to purchase narcotics. At about 12:45 p.m. Victim A went inside the apartment building to conduct the narcotics transaction and the other individuals stayed inside the vehicle. Less than five minutes later, Victim A texted one of the individuals waiting in the vehicle: "Gimmi a min he wants me to try sumthin..." The individuals inside the vehicle attempted to contact Victim A, but left the area to return home after several unanswered calls and

text messages.

Dorsey admitted that at 1:08 p.m. he contacted 911 using Victim A's cellular telephone to report an emergency and then hung up. The 911 dispatcher called Victim A's phone three times between 1:08 and 1:16 p.m., but no one answered. The 911 dispatcher also texted Victim A's phone during that time, but with no response. At 2:22 p.m. Dorsey again contacted 911, this time informing the dispatcher that Victim A was unresponsive. Emergency medical personnel responded to Dorsey's apartment and attempted lifesaving measures, but were not successful, and Victim A was pronounced dead.

The Office of the Chief Medical Examiner for the State of Maryland subsequently determined that the cause of Victim A's death was heroin, fentanyl, carfentanil, cyclopropyl fentanyl, and despropionyl fentanyl intoxication. Victim A died as a result of ingesting the narcotics Dorsey provided to Victim A.

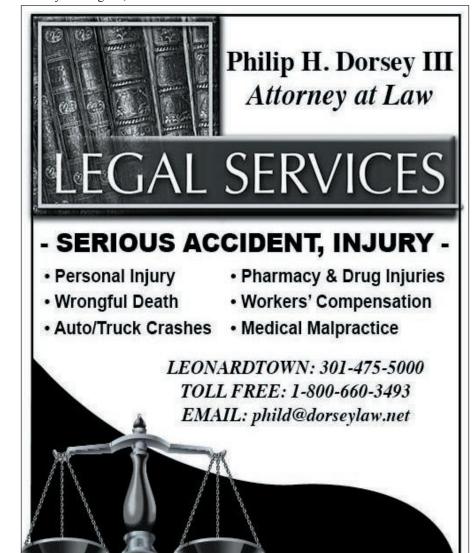

From April through June 2018, law enforcement conducted eight controlled buys of narcotics from Dorsey, who traveled from Maryland to Virginia to conduct the transactions. At the direction of law enforcement, purchases totaling of 111 grams of heroin and 78 grams of a mixture of heroin and other drugs, including fentanyl, fentanyl analogues, and/or cocaine were made from Dorsey.

On July 13, 2018, law enforcement executed a search warrant at Dorsey's residence and recovered narcotics containing heroin, fentanyl and cocaine; 12 boxes/bottles of cutting agents for heroin; and drug paraphernalia. From Dorsey's vehicle, law enforcement recovered a black vacuum sealed foil package containing heroin from inside a magnetic box in the rear floorboard.

United States Attorney Robert K. Hur praised the DEA, HSI, the Prince George's County Police Department, the St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office, and the Prince William County Police Department for their work in the investigation. Mr. Hur thanked Assistant U.S. Attorneys Jennifer R. Sykes and Gregory Bernstein, who prosecuted the case.

Local Associate Pastor Becomes Navy Chaplain

Humble. Wise. Hardworking. Tender-hearted. Loving. Easy-going. Powerful Preacher. These are some of the ways members of Patuxent Presbyterian Church have described their beloved associate pastor. In addition to being an Associate Pastor, Reverend Benjamin Garris recently earned the impressive distinction of Navy Chaplain, and is a Lieutenant Junior Grade in the United States Navy Reserves. After completing the required three phases of intensive and varied training, he graduated on July 24th from the Navy Chaplain School in Newport, Rhode Island.

Since graduating from Union Presbyterian Seminary with his Master of Divinity degree in 2015, Rev. Garris has experienced a whirlwind of life changes in a short span of time - commissioning into the Chaplain Candidacy Program in 2012, marrying his beloved wife Paige in 2015; moving to Southern Maryland and pastoring at Patuxent Presbyterian Church in 2016; training, learning, and more training; experiencing the loss of a close family member; awaiting assignment to a Navy Reserve unit; expecting a son on Christmas Day this year. Through it all, Rev. Garris has possessed a sense of calm by trusting God. "Perhaps it sounds cliché, but trusting God is how I'm able to experience life one day at a time while remaining flexible and open to change," stated Rev. Garris.

Passionate about serving God and country, Rev. Garris considers Luke 10:27 (NIV) to be his life verse: "Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength and with all your mind; and Love your neighbor as yourself." As a servant leader in both the church and military, he is devoted to offering a ministry of presence. The similarities in both callings are to provide religious services to those of his own faith and to demonstrate care for everyone by listening and counseling. Exclusive to his Chaplaincy in the Navy Reserves, Rev. Garris will be present to train alongside the sailors and marines and will remind them that God is with them where they are, will facilitate those of other faiths with their religious needs through connections to various faith communities, and will advise the Command on moral and ethical issues, as well as potential religious implications pertaining to a mission.

The ministry of presence is also a vital part of the Garris marriage. "My wife Paige loves the Lord, and she is a constant physical reminder of God's love to me and everyone who knows her. Her love, prayers, and support are making so many incredible things happen for us as a family and for so many others," said Rev.

While completing Phases 2 and 3 of Chaplaincy School early in July, Rev. Garris was impressed with the advice shared by the Chaplain School CO, Capt. Steve Moses regarding the importance of "Upward Living" and adopting the gratitude attitude of "I GET TO do this." As Rev. Garris awaits word on the Navy unit he will serve, he continues to live by faith, one day at a time. The Bible verse which has been on the forefront of his mind and on his heart is Proverbs 16:9 (NLT): "We can make our plans, but the Lord determines our steps."

Press Release from Patuxent Presbyterian Church

Dragon Boat Racing: Part Competition, Part Fun

By Dick Myers, Editor and Guy Leonard, Staff Reporter

Fun is the name of the game at the Solomons Dragon Boat Festival. But a little bit of friendly competition always creeps in.

For the last three years the sheriff's and their deputies from Calvert and St. Mary's went dragon head to dragon head. They have decided to take some time off this year.

This will be the second year that students and staff alike from all three St. Mary's County high schools take part in the Dragon Boat races and they are all going in with some preparation and a lot of enthusiasm.

Great Mills High School has mustered a team of between 15 to 25 students spanning all grades from freshmen to senior, male and female.

Ryan Hanley, the school's athletic director, said they are coming to the competition with a good number of student athletes.

"The kids are really looking forward to it," Hanley said

It was fairly easy to get students interested in the competition, which raises money for the Southern Maryland Community Resources non-profit group, since the last group to participate had a good report of the race.

"They had such a great time... it created a little bit of a buzz," Hanley said.

Superintendent Scott Smith was a key promoter of getting students and staff involved, Hanley said.

"He's been a big supporter of this," said Hanley.

They'll have one practice run before the races on Aug. 17 in Solomon, Hanley said, using a boat donated to them from a competitor who had raced previously.

His students are going in against teams who have raced extensively before.

"Some of these teams are really well organized," Hanley said.

At Chopticon High School, their team is more seasoned, at least when it comes to age.

Instead of students crewing the boat, staff members will be provided the muscle power to cut a swath through the Patuxent River.

Marc Pirner, vice principal at Chopticon who has drawn his boat mates to the competition, said they have a team of 16 paddlers with a drummer on board and two alternates.

He recognizes that Great Mills' team might have the advantage of youth when it comes to paddling off Solomons but he and his team are hoping that a steady pace approach will bring them to victory.

"Our strategy is... to be more methodical," Pirner said.

The team is comprised of the principal, vice principal, the gym teacher as well as math, art and English teachers with others on board, Pirner said.

In all there are 10 women and eight men on the team. They, too, are headed into the competition with little training but are looking forward to the task ahead.

"We're looking forward to the practice," Pirner said. "We just go and have fun."

Leonardtown High School's team will be a mixed group of students and staff, their enthusiasm going in is high, according to team organizer Corine Marino, a volleyball coach and school counselor.

"It's a mix," Marino said of their dragon boat crew. Some of the crew come from the school's sailing program, she said.

"But we've opened it up to everybody else," Marino said. "It was hard to wrangle kids to the team because of fall sports, a lot of them were committed to that."

Like all the other teams they are short on experience but long on enthusiasm.

"We're going in cold," Marino said. "We're going to see what happens.

Crew from Leonardtown high school practices on Aug. 12

"Isn't that the best way to do it?"

The crew is split about evenly between staff and students, she said.

"We've heard nothing but great things about the Dragon Boat races," Marino said. "It seems like an amazing event.

"We will not be coming in a with a great advantage but with a lot of youth and spirit."

The teams have been practicing this week under the watchful eye of the crew from 22Dragons, the company that supplies the boats and the expertise for dragon boat races all over the country and in Canada.

Lee Cerovac is the race manager for the Solomons Dragon Boat Festival. Cerovac said of what he does, "It's extremely satisfying. I meet lots of really nice people. You don't really have grouches or anything. It's really nice.

"What I really get satisfaction out of is to take a team out and they're terrible going out and you tell them that they look terrible, they're going to be terrible, but you also promise them that when they're on their way in, they're going to be so proud of themselves because they're going to look so good. That transformation is really exciting to me."

The Solomons Dragon Boat Festival is part of a rapidly expanding phenomena in the United States and Canada that has its roots deep in Chinese lore. In China, a dragon boat festival was a traditional holiday occurring near the summer solstice. And dragon boat racing originated in southern central China more than 2500 years ago.

The Solomons Dragon Boat Festival benefits Southern Maryland Community Resources (SMCR). They serve people with "development differences" in both Calvert and St. Mary's countries and the proceeds from the previous dragon boat festivals have enabled them to expand those programs.

According to their website, "SMCR promotes the inclusion of persons with developmental differences into the life of our community. We advocate for individuals with special needs, to recognize the inherent dignity that is theirs because they are members of our one human family. We promote social recreational and educational opportunities where individuals with developmental differences can contribute their unique gifts and develop their potential."

Cerovac said, "The places where we go that need the money it really makes us want to do the work." He had just arrived from a festival that benefitted sexually abused children, and now this week it's for the people with "developmental differences" who depend on SMCR

"Everybody's got something that is near and dear to their heart. So, they use dragon boating as a good way to make the money."

The festival weekend kicks off Friday night at Our Lady Start of the Sea Church with a 7 p.m. event called

"Dotting of the Eye." It's a traditional ceremony to celebrate the opening of the festival during which the pupil of each dragon's eye is painted in so the dragons can see. With another stroke of a brush, paint is added to their tongues so the dragons can breathe, and the dragons are ready to race." Everyone can join in.

You can also adopt a dragon. They (the cure little stuffed toys) will also be available for purchase on race day, Saturday, Aug. 17, with all donations benefiting SMCR's programs for individuals with developmental differences.

Then on race day at shortly before the 9 a.m. start there will be a Parade of Teams followed by Presentation of the Colors.

The following are some of the festival highlights:

- Free Admission, Free Shuttle from Free Parking Area, Accessible Event with Designated Accessible Parking Area.
- Dragon Dance, Music, Craft and Food Vendors, Fun Activities.
- The Dragonnette's Nest: A family activity area for kids and adults with dragon face painting, a scavenger hunt and more.
- Parade of Teams.
- Awards Ceremony takes place at the Solomons Island Gazebo located on the riverwalk.

Festival organizers urge everyone to take some time to visit the vendors area located on the grounds of Our Lady Star of the Sea historic church, where you'll find loads of artisans, merchants, food vendors and fun activities. Don't forget to visit the "Team Village" to check out the team tents and costumes and be sure to visit the Dragonette's Nest for face painting and other kids' activities.

To kick off the week's festivities, a reception was held Sunday, Aug. 11 at Holiday Inn. It was attended by Calvert County Commissioner President Tim Hutchins and Commissioner Buddy Hance and St. Mary's County Commissioner Todd Morgan.

Morgan took note of the cooperative spirit between the two counties. The dragon boats are launched on a beach with the Gov, Thomas Johnson Bridge as a backdrop, another symbol of the connection between the two counties.

Kevin Detwiler, one of the St. Mary's County beneficiaries of SMCR programs, thanked them for providing needed services to those with developmental differences like himself. He also praised SMCR Executive Director Bonnie Elward, also a St. Mary's County resident. It was her idea and the help of a (dragon) boatload of volunteers that have brought the Solomons Dragon Boat Festival to this successful point just ahead of the fourth year of races.

Journalist Detained in Iran to Deliver Bradlee Lecture Jason Rezaian to Speak at St. Mary's College

In July of 2014, Jason Rezaian and his wife were detained in their Iranian home and he went on to spend 544 days in Tehran's Evin prison, released on the same day that the historic nuclear deal between Iran and world powers was implemented. On Thursday, October 17 at 7:30 p.m., former U.S. correspondent Rezaian will deliver the Benjamin C. Bradlee Distinguished Lecture in Journalism on the topic of his book, "Prisoner" (Anthony Bourdain Books, 2019).

The lecture will be held in Auerbach Auditorium of St. Mary's Hall on the St. Mary's College of Maryland campus. Presented by the Center for the Study of Democracy, a joint project of St. Mary's College of Maryland and Historic St. Mary's City, this event is free of charge and open to the public but registration is recommended. An audience question and answer, and book sale and signing, will follow the lecture.

Rezaian is one of the few Western journalists to have been based in Tehran in recent years. From 2009 until his arrest in 2014, he covered stories that tried to explain Iran to a general American audience, first as a freelancer for a variety of outlets and later as The Washington Post's Tehran bureau chief.

He reported on two presidential elections, Iran's nuclear negotiations with global powers, the effects of one of the most punitive regimes in modern times, and environmental issues. In between those momentous topics, he told the stories of everyday Iranians which sought to make them more accessible to readers, reporting on Iran's small community of baseball players, the quest for the best high-end hamburger in Tehran, and a clinic for female drug addicts.

"Prisoner" is the dramatic memoir of Rezaian's ordeal of being held hostage in the high-security prison in Tehran for eighteen months. The New York Times Review of Books called it "more than just a memoir that reads like a thriller. It's also an intimate family history, an anguished love letter to an ancient and broken homeland, and a spirited defense of journalism and truth at a time when both are under attack almost everywhere."

Since his release, Rezaian has been a vocal advocate for press freedom around the world, as well as for Americans falsely imprisoned abroad.

He is the winner of numerous awards including the Ellis Island Medal of Honor, the National Press Club's John Aubuchon Press Freedom Award, James W. Foley Legacy Foundation's Press Freedom Award, Arthur Ross Media Award for Reporting from the American Academy of Diplomacy, and The Radio Television Digital News Foundations First Amendment Award.

Established by former Washington Post executive editor and College trustee Benjamin Bradlee, this lecture series has brought many notable journalists to St. Mary's, including Bob Woodward, David Broder, Tom Brokaw, Robin Wright, Richard Cohen, Tony Kornheiser, David Ignatius, Gwen Ifill, Neil Irwin, Cokie Roberts, and Carl Bernstein.

The Center for the Study of Democracy, directed by Dr. Antonio Ugues Jr. associate professor of political science at St. Mary's College, explores contemporary and historical issues associated with the ideas of democracy, liberty and justice in national and international contexts. It supports research that enhances our understanding of liberal democracy and its critics. The Center facilitates activities that strengthen democracy and the rule of law; enhance security and individual freedoms; invigorate the civil society; encourage free enterprise; and increase economic, environmental, educational and cultural equity.

Local Racer Pursues Dream Against Planet's Fastest Riders

McKay Competes in Lucas Oil Pro Motocross Championship

Southern Maryland's Eric McKay is chasing his dream of being a professional motocross athlete. The dirt-bike racer is competing in the Lucas Oil Pro Motocross Championship, the world's most prestigious offroad motorcycle series that travels across the country for 12 weekends every summer.

Over the course of this grueling championship, hundreds of riders and thousands of fans converge at some of the most picturesque landscapes in the U.S. Many of the events and the tracks the series is contested on carry upwards of four decades of history, making them legendary and iconic venues for the sport of motocross, just like landmark stadiums such as Wrigley Field and Fenway Park

The Lucas Oil Pro Motocross Championship begins in mid-May and continues until late August and features two classes of competition – 250 $\check{\text{Class}}$ and 450 Class. The 250 Class is where the sport's rising stars do battle, making a name for themselves in hopes of future success, just like in the NASCAR Xfinity Series. The 450 Class is the championship's premier showcase, where the biggest names in motocross like Ken Roczen, Eli Tomac, and Marvin Musquin showcase their talents in search of victory and a championship, just like NASCAR's Cup Series. Regardless of class, these competitors are some of the toughest, fittest, and most daring athletes on the planet as they battle their own physical and mental limits, an ever-changing track, a powerful 250-pound motorcycle, and 39 other riders. There's simply nothing like it.

All of motocross' most well-known names have left their mark on the Lucas Oil Pro Motocross Championship, including Ricky Carmichael, Travis Pastrana, Ryan Dungey and Jeremy McGrath. To win in this championship is distinguishing in the annals of the sport's history, but to even have the talent to compete against the world's best riders from around the globe is an incredible achievement in itself that deserves to be recognized. This is the most elite level of motocross and all its competitors can rightfully claim their position as one of the best in the world.

McKay talled to The County Times about his quest.

How many years have you been racing professional Motocross?

"In 2009, 10 years ago I began traveling the country racing professional motocross and supercross."

Have you raced at Budd's Creek Motocross before and what were your results?

'Budd's Creek is always the one race a local racer wants to make the mains in. Each year since 2009 I have competed in the Budd's Creek Pro National. Results have always varied. As a privateer it is very hard to compete against the top racers in the business. But for realistic results with what we are given I believe I have made great accomplishments only few will ever get the chance to achieve".

Describe the track and what will be the most fun and challenging parts of the course?

'Budd's is always a different track at the national. We can train and train through the weeks leading up to the race but come race day it demands a much higher level of commitment. The most challenging parts are actually the most fun. During a pro national the track will have deep ruts that make it a fast, but challenging

Your thoughts on the race and your goals for the event?

'My goals for Budd's is to place top 20 in my qualifying times. 7 weeks ago, I sustained an injury that required surgery. Training and seat time have been minimal leading up to the event, but I feel strong and confident to be able to compete this year at the race."

What would you say to encourage people in the community to come and check out the motocross race who maybe have never before watched the sport?

"Motocross is a sport like no other. We aren't football or nascar. It is a physically demanding sport that requires each rider to live on the edge every single time we hit the track. When most people hear "dirtbikes", they think of regular trail bikes that buzz around the yard or through the woods. What make motocross different is the ever changing track, the obstacles, the racers elbow to elbow going 50/60mph around the track and through the air.'

I got word you are from Hollywood, Maryland? How special is it for you to be able to race in front of family and friends and pretty close to home? Will you have a large contingency coming out to support and watch you race?

"I am from Hollywood, Maryland. My training compound is here and I have a fairly large, supportive following from the county. A race like this does usually bring out family and friends from all over, so it would be hard to even start to say how large the over whelming support will be. Most of the people who know me understand it is a very different lifestyle. Racing professionally comes with sacrifices most can't imagine. So to be able to have one of the 12 rounds at Budd's Creek each year is priceless to me and I couldn't be more excited to hit the dirt."

Anything else you'd like to add.

"I have to add a huge thank you to all of my sponsors including a few large local companies and individuals who have stepped up to help me get to the races and achieve my dreams.

'My beautiful fiancé and full time supporter Katie Ketterman, My main mechanic Jake McHale, Hollywood Grafx, Reactive Lifestyle Racer Development, No Reverse Racing Gear and Apparel, AR Bowen Home Solutions, JES Investment Group, Exile MX Seats, Rekluse Motorsports, Motosport, Ketterman family, Lasher family, McKay family, Patrick Anderson, John Cameron, Dave Stockstill - Total Kitchen Care, RRR Racing, the Frick family, Finishline Concrete, Dr. Wymore, Joplin Racing, Ellicott City Motorsports, and SM City Motorsports"

Round 11 of the 12-race Lucas Oil Pro Motocross Championship comes to Budds Creek Motocross Park at 27963 Budds Creek Rd. in Mechanicsville, on Saturday, April 17 for the Geico Motorcycle Budds Creek

Wanderings Aimless Mind

by Shelby Oppermann Contributing Writer

Have fun where you can get it

I started this column last week, but it was a crazy time for me, and I couldn't finish. I remember telling my husband that I have no mind, no focus, and cannot get two words of a sentence together. Do I have to write his response to that, or do you know us well enough by now to guess? He said, "Why don't you write about our trip to Johns Hopkins on Monday and subsequent, impromptu ER visit?"

Okay, you know I am open to anything, especially if someone reads this who is in the same boat and needs someone to talk to about autoimmune diseases. I am here for you. Everyone knows I have Rheumatoid Arthritis (RA) and OA amongst other fun autoimmune diseases that had to join the party. You know RA, it's the mostly invisible disease that you are afraid to get a handicap placard for because people will scream at you, not knowing you are in complete body pain. You look fine. In fact, there is a Facebook group called: But you don't look sick.

My newest treatment plan, besides my three base RA meds that keep me from freezing up and living on a couch again, is to have Rituxan infusions. I have been on everything else, all for a few or many years -Methotrexate, and the biologics: Enbrel, Orencia, and the most recent, Humira injections. And always my two base medications of Plaquenil and Leflunomide, and of course Prednisone and steroid injections. It takes a lot of stuff to keep me moving and happy. If not, I freeze up completely and will be stuck immobile on our couch again. The biologics are the ones that have all these happy commercials of people building playgrounds and jumping off cliffs, things like that, which I could probably do if these would keep working for me, or if I am in a short remission. Go to any RA Facebook group and you can constantly read the rantings about these commercials, "Why don't they put the real RA people in with the splayed hands and lumpy joints – no, that would turn viewers off"

Anyway, I better not get started that direction. I realize I am ranting. I am sure many of you know about or are on these meds. Rituxan is my last shot, because joint deformation is happening faster all the time, and at present, there is nothing past it for me. The other biologics either caused severe side effects, or reached their plateau, or as in the case of Humira, made no difference at all. In fact, my inflammation levels are back as high as they were when I first started at JHU.

I was nervous and excited about getting my infusion – the first one usually lasts from getting there to finish about 6 to 7 hours. We stayed in Baltimore and were at Hopkins Bayview Infusion Center at 7:30 a.m. They custom make the infusion for each patient, also adding in steroids and giving you Benadryl and Tylenol pills to head off allergic reactions before they start. The Benadryl about knocked me out - couldn't keep my eyes open for most of the day. Then I was happily getting my infusion watching a nice nature and music channel for about three hours (photo included). They kept checking my blood pressure, which started out in the 160s (its high anyway from everyday steroids and who knows what other reasons) but kept getting higher until it reached the 190s, and the nurse got scared and called my rheumatologist. I kept telling her to keep going, but they had to stop. I must admit that the pounding of my head did scare me a bit, even while half asleep on the Benadryl, yet shaking from the surge of steroids.

They insisted I go to the ER. Unfortunately, we thought we were being efficient and had arranged for my husband to get the test he needed over at University of Maryland Hospital. He immediately canceled his appointment and met me at ER. I had walked the 100 feet over there, because I didn't want to go – I sat in the infusion waiting room for a good 15 minutes thinking this over, but my pounding head, and husband decided for me

I must tell you, that JHU ER is quick and on the ball. Lots of tests naturally, all done three hours apart: EKGs, X-rays, bloodwork. They only pointed to a possible enlargement of left side of heart – due to the high bp, and some issue with right lung. They took so much blood on my left side that I finally had to ask that they shift to the right arm, so I wouldn't be lopsided as I walked down the hallway. They never could get my blood pressure down, as it had continued to rise over 200/50 – and that is the way it was when we left. My local primary doctor the next morning has added an additional, what I call a kicker. bp med to help. I went again this past Monday, and so far, no go for lower-

The best part of the day was spending the three hours in the test results waiting room where we had a very loud, uproariously good time with people of many races and nationalities. My husband was showing photos of himself dressed as one of the Clements Cuties with his tall Baltimore "Hon" wig for the Clements Cuties fundraising event on the 24th at Back Road Inn. He invited everyone I think. We were also solving all the problems of the world. When we were told we could leave at 7:30 that night, we had to go back to the test result waiting room first and say goodbye to all our new friends - we were having fun wherever we could

Press Release from Town of Leonardtown

Cruise from Baltimore

Cruising from the Port of Baltimore is a convenient alternative to crowded south Florida cruise ports. Instead of adding the time and expense of traveling to Florida you can easily access your hometown port and choose from over 110 sailings in 2020.

Cruise Maryland offers year-round cruising to the Bahamas, Bermuda, Canada/New England and the Caribbean. Royal Caribbean International's Grandeur of the Seas will offer 46 cruises with a choice of 5, 7, 8, 9, 11 & 12 Nights. Carnival Cruise Lines' Pride will offer 50 that are either 7 or 14 Nights. American Cruise Lines offers 14 exciting River Cruises. You will save money by cruising from Maryland and you can also take advantage of resident priced cruises that are offered from time to time.

Perhaps the biggest myth is that most people think cruises from Baltimore only have ports of call in the Bahamas or Bermuda. Ports of call include Antiqua, Aruba, Barbados, Bar Harbor, Bermuda, Boston, Charleston, Curacao Haiti, Halifax, Martinique, Nassau, Nova Scotia, Port Canaveral, Portland, San Juan, St. Croix, St. John, St. Kitts, St. Lucia, St. Maarten, St. Thomas, Tortola, Turks & Caicos and everyone's new favorite, Perfect Day at Coco Cay.

River cruising is a fast growing segment of travel. The Port of Baltimore offers this unique experience and most people do not even know these river cruises exist. American cruise lines will offer 14 cruises from Baltimore in 2020 on three different ships. Choose from 6 Night Chesapeake Bay Roundtrip, 10 Night American Revolution & Chesapeake Bay Roundtrip and there are two, 14 Night East Coast Inland Passage Cruises from Baltimore to Jacksonville

Ports of call for these River Cruises include Annapolis, Beaufort, Cambridge, Charleston, Crisfield, Fernandina Beach, Hilton Head, Kitty Hawk, Jacksonville, Jekyll Island, Moorehead City, Mt. Vernon, Norfolk, St. Michaels, St. Simmons Island, Washington DC, Williamsburg &7 Yorktown.

American Cruise Lines was proud to announce the newest addition to the expanding fleet of small cruise ships, the American Constitution. Designed with elegance in mind, this brand-new coastal cruise ship will carry a capacity of just 175 guests and is uniquely designed to navigate the inland coastal waterways of the East Coast. This is one of the three ships sailing from Baltimore next year and has six sailings. You will experience a captivating exploration of American history with suites ranging from 250 to 900 square feet, the staterooms are the largest in the small cruise ship industry and offer all the amenities of a fine hotel, including full-size bathrooms, a roomy sitting area, and large closets. There are unique lounges, an exquisite culinary program, breakfast room service, cocktail hour each evening, awardwinning enrichment programs and Wi-Fi throughout the ship.

There are differences between small ship and mega-ship sailing. River Cruise staterooms are sold at higher price points than ocean cruise lines. Those higher prices are more inclusive and include things likes shore excursions, drinks, and other perks that would be a la carte if you were to book a base ocean cruise fare. Shore excursions are generally included in river cruising. Most river cruise ships have some sort of spa services onboard and have one to two restaurants, with lighter meals served in a lounge or on a sundeck. River cruises don't ban children, but there's not much to keep children entertained onboard. Most cabins and suites only sleep two people but, some can sleep three. All ships offer single cabins without a single supplement.

Baltimore is one of four Mid-Atlantic cruise ports. It is the closest East Coast drive-to port from Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Indianapolis and Chicago, and is within a three-hour drive from the New York City metro area. The Cruise Maryland Terminal is 2.5 miles from Baltimore's world-famous Inner Harbor, 10 miles from BWI Thurgood Marshall Airport, and within 1.5 hours of two other major airports. The Port is also within a six-hour drive of 40 million people.

There are many hotels near the cruise terminal. Several are in the Inner Harbor area and others offer "park and cruise" packages. Consider staying in the city to take in Baltimore's attractions.

The other attractions to check out are American Visionary Art Museum, Orioles Park at Camden Yards, and Baltimore Aquarium. Come early or stay late and experience Baltimore's historic charm, world-famous Inner Harbor, quaint neighborhoods and exquisite restaurants.

Perhaps next year you will consider taking a cruise from the Port of Baltimore. Now is the time to plan your vacation, family reunion or group cruise.

Pamela Ann Margaret Moran

Pamela Ann Margaret Moran, 68, of Lexington Park, MD passed away on August 8, 2019 at home with her husband by her side.

Pamela was born on September 10, 1950 in Huddersfield, Yorkshire, U.K. to Sidney Brook and Margaret Scoon (Cooper) Brook (Deceased).

Influenced by her mother's British Red Cross service, Pamela was drawn to nursing at a young age and immensely enjoyed her 36 year long career in the field. She started out in 1973, as a Licensed Child Care Nurse in England. She stayed in nursing until her retirement in 2014, as a widely respected and well-liked Board Certified Med-Surgical Registered Nurse in St. Mary's County. Along the way she worked at several large British Medical Institutions caring for the mentally ill in the British Midlands and St Alban's near London until 1975. She was lured to balmier climes by an advertisement for Nurses by Bermuda Hospitals Board. Pamela cherished her time living in Bermuda. Her fun loving and easy- going personality fit in well there and when Pam was not working, you could find her riding around the island on a little blue moped she had named "Phyllis". Pamela worked at St. Brendan's Hospital in Bermuda until her marriage (to Daniel) in 1977 and subsequent birth of her son (Nicholas) in 1978.

The County Times

Following her husband's career, the family moved from Bermuda's tropical lushness to the arid high desert of Southern California in 1980. She and her son were witnesses to history as NASA Special Invited Guests to the first landing of the Space Shuttle at Edwards AFB, where her husband worked. Shortly after the birth of her second child (Sarah) changes in career opportunities led to the growing family's move to St Mary's County, Maryland in 1981. Pamela immediately fell in love with the area's seasonal water landscapes and the county's friendly residents who warmly welcomed her from the outset. It was in Maryland that her third child (Megan) was born. Overcoming differences in her international nursing credentials, Pamela began work at St. Mary's Hospital in 1987 as a Technician and subsequently graduated from Charles County Community College with an Associate's Degree in Nursing in 1993. After additional years at St. Mary's Hospital as an RN on several units where her commendable service was recognized, she later worked at Calvert County Memorial Hospital, Breton Medical Services and then moved to more specialized work helping people with social, mental & physical disabilities with several Southern Maryland Organizations. Her illness forced her to end more than a decade's long career as a delegating nurse with Bay CSS/UCP Southern Maryland in 2014.

Besides her work, she was devoted to her family, especially her recently arrived grandchildren whom she absolutely adored. She was a diehard Washington Redskins fan, having exchanged her British Manchester United Team loyalties for the Redskins. She enjoyed her PBS British shows and only illness would keep her from her Saturday morning viewing of "EastEnders". She watched the "Tour De France" race avidly every year, since she considered the racers the greatest athletes in any sport, and was deeply disappointed when a planned trip to the UK for the Tour's start would begin in her hometown had to be put off her illness. Fortunately, Pamela travelled often early in life and was able to visit many beautiful places. In her youth, she enjoyed trips with her parents to Spain, Greece, the Isle of Man and later with her husband and children back to England, Scotland, Bermuda to visit friends. Her more recent travel included trips for enjoyment to Costa Rica, and Italy and Alaska. She also travelled to California and Florida to witness the arrival into this world of her three grandchildren in defiance of her growing mobility impairments. Pamela was a beloved wife, mother, sister, friend and a tireless advocate for those less fortunate than herself. She will be dearly missed but never

In addition to her husband, Pamela is survived by her children Nicholas M. Moran, of ID, Sarah Moran Vidstrand (Anders), of VA, and Megan Johnson (Kyle), of FL, brother, William B. Brook (Merry), of CA, and three grandchildren.

Family will receive friends for Pamela's Life Celebration on Thursday, August 15, 2019 from 5:00 to 8:00 p.m. with a Prayer Service at 7:00 p.m., at Brinsfield Funeral Home, 22955 Hollywood Road, Leonardtown, MD 20650.
