COVID Positive Tests at a Ten-Week High

At-Home Testing, Self-Isolation May Skew Data

By Dick Myers
Staff Writer

In recent weeks, The County Times has received numerous reports of Calvert County residents contracting Covid. Is this anecdotal information an indication of a resurgence of Covid? The County Times asked the Calvert County Health Department for a response and the following was received on Dec. 7:

“Calvert County case counts increased slightly during the most recent reporting period, November 23–29. Positives are unique cases for the respective time period. At home tests, or presumption of positivity isn’t included in these counts.

“Overall testing volume decreased. The resulting percent positivity is the highest overall in 10 weeks. The 75 and over age group had the highest positivity during this reporting period, at 30 percent.

“Centers for Disease Control (CDC) recommends the 2023–2024 updated COVID-19 vaccines: Pfizer-BioNTech, Moderna, or Novavax, to protect against serious illness from COVID-19. Also, for everyone six months and older, there’s still time to get a seasonal flu vaccine to protect against influenza this season.

“In addition to COVID-19 and the seasonal flu, RSV (respiratory syncytial virus) is also active in our community. RSV is a common respiratory virus that usually causes cold-like symptoms. Most people will recover in a week or two, but serious symptoms can develop. Infants and older adults are more likely to develop severe RSV than otherwise healthy adults, and hospitalization may be necessary in some cases.

“For those 60 or older, a vaccine is available to protect against severe RSV. If a woman is pregnant, she can get an RSV vaccine between 32–36 weeks of pregnancy to protect their infant after birth, or a preventative antibody can be given to the baby after birth. People should discuss the benefits and risks with their healthcare provider in order to make an informed choice.”

In his most recent posting on the health department’s website, Health Officer Dr. Laurence Polsky warned of an upswing in cases as the cold weather and flu season arrived. He said, “Covid is not wreaking as much havoc as we saw two to three years ago, but as new variants appear, we continue to see waves of infections, hospitalizations, and deaths across our county and across the U.S. It is likely that we will see increases in covid, influenza, and RSV in late fall and into the winter. All three of these infections are mostly preventable with vaccination.

“Regardless of your risk of severe illness, there are two reasons to consider staying up to date with the new covid vaccines that have been recommended by infectious disease physicians across America.

“1) It is clear that children and adults are at risk of long covid, even if their initial illness is mild. Long covid includes persisting (months or years) symptoms such as severe fatigue and clouded thinking, and increased risks of new onset diabetes and other serious disease processes. Numerous scientific studies have shown that staying current on vaccination decreases the risk of both infection and long covid.

“2) The more people in our community who are vaccinated, the lower the rates of community transmission. In turn, those most at risk of hospitalization and death are less likely to be exposed to and contract covid. We all understand what a burden it is on our local emergency room and hospital when waves of infections hit Calvert. None of us wants to see general hospital wards and the intensive care unit closed to new admissions because of preventable illnesses. We’re all a car crash or infected appendix away from a hospital admission. Regardless of our individual health status, it is in everyone’s interest to have local hospital resources available when we need them.

“The current covid vaccine is not a booster. Like annual flu vaccines, this is a new formulation to best match the covid strains currently circulating. We don’t refer to each fall’s flu shot as a ‘booster’. The current vaccine is based on the XBB.1.5 variant which is markedly different in terms of what our immune systems recognize than the original SARS-CoV-2 virus. The immunity people have generated from previous vaccines and/or previous infections provide some degree of protection, but the current transmission rates and increasing hospitalizations provide evidence that this is not sufficient to keep many people healthy.

“During clinical testing, the newly formulated covid vaccines produced antibody levels 5-6 times higher against the currently circulating viruses than the previous bivalent vaccines. The CDC projects that if vaccines are offered to everyone and not just seniors, 100,000 additional hospitalizations will be prevented this coming fall and winter across the U.S.

“Over the last 2 months, covid hospitalizations having been gradually rising, as can be seen in the graph below. We have seen an increase in covid-related hospitalizations for Calvert residents (4-5 people per week) since Labor Day. If trends hold, there will be further increases in serious covid illnesses as we head into late fall and winter.

“Per the experts at the CDC and Infectious Disease Society of America (the national organization of infectious disease physicians), if someone received a bivalent vaccine over the summer or had a recent covid infection, they should wait 3-4 months before getting the updated vaccine. If your personal healthcare provider recommends something different, there may be good reasons for this based on your specific medical condition.

“An important note for parents, over 100,000 adolescents received covid vaccines during this past year. None of them developed myocarditis. This condition, which is an inflammation of the heart muscle, was seen in adolescent males with the original two-dose series vaccinations. The national experts think the lack of myocarditis over this past year is because only a single dose was needed for last year’s booster. The current vaccine also only requires one dose for everyone age 5 and older. For children under age 5, if they were previously vaccinated, they also only need one dose this year. Children under five who have never received a covid vaccine are still recommended to get an initial series (2 doses of Moderna vaccine or three doses of Pfizer vaccine), but myocarditis has never been identified in this younger age group.

“For those who would like to have some covid tests available at home, you can now order up to 4 test kits through the federal government website- <https://www.covid.gov/tests>. There is no charge for the test kits.

“Finally, covid vaccines are no longer ‘free,’ however, everyone with health insurance can be vaccinated without any out-of-pocket cost. Pharmacies are receiving doses of the new formulations of vaccine. It will likely take longer for doctors’ offices to receive shipments. The Calvert

Health Department recommends that all of our residents sign up for a covid vaccine and a flu vaccine over the next month. You will keep yourself healthier, and just as importantly, you will keep medically high-risk family members, neighbors, classmates, and coworkers safer. As Americans, we have a moral obligation to protect others who are vulnerable. Please make the effort to get your new covid and flu vaccines and keep Calvert a healthier and safer community for all.

Polsky also recently gave an update on the Omicron variant. He wrote: “The Calvert Health Department is aware of an email circulating that gives a false impression of current covid infections. This post will not rehash the incorrect information in the email. Instead, we will provide the facts of what is currently happening with covid infections. Details will be provided to back up the information below. For those who prefer not to read a long post, the take homes are:

“All covid infections this summer have been caused by various members of the Omicron variant. These include XBB variants and the newest strain, EG.5.

“There has been a gradual, but persistent increase in cases over the summer. This increase is due to a combination of increased social interactions compared to the worst days of covid and a decrease in circulating antibody levels of people who were vaccinated last fall and those who were infected last fall and winter. As circulating antibodies decrease, people of all ages are more susceptible to reinfection, but their immune systems usually will kick in to combat the virus before severe illness occurs.

“Although we continue to see severe consequences from covid, illnesses resulting in hospitalization or death are occurring at substantially lower rates with the currently circulating Omicron variants compared to Delta and earlier variants. This is due to both: 1) new mutations in the Omicron strains, and 2) residual immune protection from previous infections (good protection) and vaccinations (better protection).

“Medical studies consistently show that vaccinations result in stronger and longer lasting immune protection than protection following natural infection.

“Even though severe acute illness is much less likely that during early periods of covid, people who get ill from covid are more likely to have prolonged courses and are at risk of long covid.

“Long covid can result in a constellation of health problems, including chronic fatigue and lung, heart, and kidney damage. People with covid are also twice as likely to develop diabetes in the year after infection than those who were not infected. Long covid can affect everyone from children through seniors.”

Sentence Imposed for Reckless Endangerment

Christopher Thomas Chaillet, 36, of Nanjemoy, pled guilty on Nov. 27 in Calvert County Circuit Court to reckless endangerment and permitting a child to have access to a firearm. The child gained access to the gun and shot himself in the arm.

Judge Mark S. Chandlee required Mr. Chaillet to serve one year of home confinement followed by three years of probation. Chaillet was required to forfeit the weapon and he will be prohibited from owning or possessing firearms in the future.

Calvert History on Display at State House Part of Annual Christmas Decorations

The Chesapeake Garden Club committee who worked on the star wreath: Judy and Richard MacWilliams, Terri Devine, and Kay Parris. Not present: Sharon Sherbert and Jackie Smith.

By Dick Myers
Staff Writer

Visitors this holiday season to the State House in Annapolis will see among the decorations a piece of Calvert County history and culture.

According to the Office of Gov. Wes Moore, "Every year during the holidays, Maryland's Federated Garden Clubs and the National Capital Area Garden Clubs decorate trees and wreaths representing all 23 of Maryland's counties and Baltimore City."

The Chesapeake Garden Club provided Calvert's contribution on Nov. 28 – the Star Tobacco Wreath, made of tobacco sticks from the county's tobacco barns, many of which are now sitting idle with the demise of the area's historic tobacco industry.

Information supplied by the garden club for the exhibit said, "The tobacco industry in Calvert County was very strong and a source of income for many farmers until the cash buyout (a program for farmers to transition from tobacco to other agricultural products). Hundreds of Calvert farms used to cultivate tobacco; today, only one family farm remains growing tobacco in Calvert.

"Many barns no longer hang tobacco but are filled with these sticks of old. The Chesapeake Garden Club is helping to preserve these centuries-old handmade sticks. Walking sticks, stars, stables, birdhouses, and other creative items are made from these sticks."

The garden club provided some background history: "Early settlers to Calvert found the Piscataway Indians growing crops, among them a plant called tobacco.

The colonists began harvesting this for their own livelihood. For over 350 years, growing tobacco was the main cash crop.

"There are many steps in growing and harvesting tobacco, but one main tool was a simple wooden stick from oak, pine, and poplar trees made and used by the farmers.

"A tobacco plant can grow to 4 to 5 feet tall with a firm stalk. Designed to hold the strong tobacco plant, a tobacco stick was cut to a point on one end and cut flat on the other. A metal cone is placed over the pointed end that enables the farmer to 'spear' the green tobacco plant, so it hangs on the stick. When the stick is full, it is hung from the rafters in a barn for several months until all the leaves turn brown. Tobacco leaves are 'stripped' off and cured over the winter months."

The tobacco sticks were provided to the garden club by the S. L. Brady Farm of Owings and the David and Susan Cox Family of Spider Hall Farm, Prince Frederick.

The Tobacco Star Wreath Committee is Terri Devine, Judy MacWilliams, Kay Parris, Sharon Sherbert, and Jackie Smith. The craftsman was Richard MacWilliams.

Maryland's State House is open to visitors daily from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m., with the exception of Christmas Day and New Year's Day. Visitors will need to show a valid ID to enter. Parking is available at several locations in Annapolis.

This year the trees and wreaths will be on display at the Maryland State House through January 1, 2024, in the rotunda.

Administrative Charging Committee Accepting Applications

The Calvert County Board of County Commissioners (BOCC) announces the Administrative Charging Committee (ACC) is now accepting applications for new members. The committee reviews findings of law enforcement investigations to determine if it is appropriate to administratively charge a police officer who is the subject of the investigation.

The ACC is comprised of five members, including the Police Accountability Board (PAB) chairperson, two citizens appointed by the BOCC and two citizens appointed by the PAB. A four-member citizen review committee, comprised of one representative each from the Calvert County Fraternal Order of Police, Calvert County NAACP, Calvert County Republican Central Committee and Calvert County Democratic Central Committee, will offer recommendations regarding the applicants to the BOCC. The BOCC will use these recommendations to appoint a citizen to the ACC for a three-year term.

Calvert Library Board Applications Being Accepted

Calvert Library announces a pending vacancy on the Calvert Board of Library Trustees (BOLT). All qualified applicants are welcome and all candidates will be assessed using the same criteria. Applications are accepted through December 19, 2023.

The responsibilities of the Board of Library Trustees are established by State Code. The Board is responsible for governance and fiscal oversight; approving library policies and budget and overseeing the work of the Executive Director. The Board is comprised of 7 community members who volunteer their time and support to the library. Officers include President, Vice President and Secretary. Responsibilities include monthly meetings; the board currently meets at 4:00pm on third Tuesdays. Once a quarter, meetings are held in person at one of the four library locations and the remainder of the meetings are held virtually on Zoom. In addition to regular meetings, there is an annual meeting of the Southern Maryland Regional Library Association that Board members are invited to attend and an annual Citizens for Maryland Libraries meeting generally held on a Saturday in October.

Service on the BOLT is a volunteer public office with a normal appointment term of five years. The open terms begin in January 2024 and lasts through December of 2025. While State law provides that individuals may serve more than one term (but not more than two full terms in succession), each term is separate and requires application, nomination by the Board and appointment by the Board of County Commissioners. Appointment to one term does not create an entitlement to serve more than one term. The Board appreciates that experience on the Board is a significant factor to be considered, but recognizes that other factors may also be significant including, but not limited to: the quality of past performance; current Board composition; specific current needs of the Board; and, the comparative qualifications of all applicants. Additionally, since Board membership is a privilege, all eligible County citizen should have equal access to consideration for this privilege.

Details and a link to the online application can be found at <https://calvertlibrary.info/about-us/board-of-trustees/meet-the-board/>.

opened & ran their own family business, Dooleys Furniture and Upholstery on Duke Street in Leonardtown. They raised their 6 children and ran their retail business for over 40 years, celebrating 57 years of marriage before Bertie's passing in 2009. After her passing, Roy continued his daily routine until his dementia diagnosis in 2020. He then resided at Taylor Farms Assisted Living in Bushwood, Maryland for three years. During visits he would insist on car rides, reminiscing of his past, and driving around to look at his former home and place of business in Leonardtown to see all the changes. One thing that never changed with Roy was his love for sweets, especially ice cream.

Roy is survived by his children Mary Ann Jarczynski (Jim) Myrtle Beach, SC, Bonnie Lynn Zimmerer (Steve) York, PA, Michael Alan Dooley, Jessup, MD, Jennifer Gale Hudson (Matt) Kissimmee, FL, and Stacey Lee Dawson (Doug) Ocean Isle Beach, NC; his eight grandchildren and six great-grandchildren; his brothers Russell Dooley, Bill Dooley, Hilton Dooley and Bobby (AKA Brother) Dooley and extended friends and family. He is preceded in death by his loving wife Roberta Ann Miedzinski Dooley, his parents, his two sisters, seven brothers and his son Stephen Roy Dooley.

The family will have a Graveside service on December 9, 2023 at 12:00 p.m. at Charles Memorial Gardens, 26325 Point Lookout Road, Leonardtown, MD 20650.

In lieu of flowers, please consider donations to Taylor Farms Assisted Living Bushwood, MD or Hospice of Southern Maryland.

A View From The BLEACHERS

VEGETABLE STANDS AND FROZEN PIZZA

By Ronald N. Guy Jr.
Contributing Writer

A modified bookshelf sits prominently in an inviting living room that is otherwise decorated with memorabilia spanning 40 years of D.C. sports history. On the shelves are hundreds of vinyl records; some are new but most are old, several even older than their present owner. Conditions vary from pristine (great survivors of an untold provenance) to the “well played”, the latter population delivering that warm, snap-crackle-pop through the speakers as they spin across a needle delicately navigating ancient surface grooves.

I have trouble explaining my affinity for these records. And as a writer, my struggle for words is bothersome. On the surface, it makes no sense. I could compile all of these albums in no time – click here, click there and boom... they are on my phone, tablet or computer in digital form. Access would be easy and from anywhere. The sound would be crisp and clean. The total acquisition cost would likely be less. Storage - simple.

So why would I choose to attend countless records shows, hunt down record stores in every town I visit and sift through stack after stack of dusty vinyl just to assemble this swelling mass of music artifacts?

I don't know. But I can hypothesize. And Sports Illustrated (SI), the once great must-read magazine for sports fans, provided a fantastic data point for my contemplation.

Life moves fast, so in case you missed it (I did), SI recently faced heat for getting caught using content generated by Artificial Intelligence (AI). The content not only did not disclose it was computer generated, it was attributed to a human author – a person who does not exist in carbon form. When sleuths confronted SI, it did what many exposed people and entities do now: deny, divert and embrace victimhood. SI's official response was it used a third party for content and was duped themselves. Ah, so SI wasn't being disingenuous, it was incompetent. That makes things so much better.

Spineless SI aside, AI content isn't coming, it's here and is poised to spread. Disclosure of its use, at least by professional journalistic forums (there's no hope for social media), is critical. From there, consumers will decide its fate and proliferation. As a sports writer, is it threatening? Somewhat. It is difficult to comprehend how pernicious it could be. But human writers should gladly accept the challenge. I believe sports fans will always want content – good content, not lazy, slap-it-together generic poo - generated by a fellow human. It ensures accuracy and source-authenticity; and, if a piece is well-written, I refuse to believe that a machine can adequately capture and convey the intricacies of and human emotions generated by a sporting event. For example, if you're telling me a machine can properly communicate the passions of degenerates at Philadelphia Eagles games, I ain't buying it.

Gut instinct (something AI doesn't have): at the end of the day, most people will tolerate some AI for basic information, but will continue looking to other humans for deeper meaning and more thought-provoking stories. I think – hope – the same will apply to other artforms. AI-generated movie scripts and scores, faux lip-synched “live” concerts, hologram shows (ABBA, KISS) and macro, AI-generated pop songs have their place, I suppose (being kind). But brass tacks: how much ultra-processing can the soul stand?

Which of course circles back to those vinyl records. Why the allure? They represent the music's original intended form. Led Zeppelin's “IV”, Rolling Stones' “Exile on Mainstreet”, Stevie Wonder's “Innervisions” weren't meant for a digital format. An MP3 of Aretha Franklin's “Respect” piped into your brain via ear buds will never be an adequate substitute for holding an original album in your hands while the record spins and you work up a sweat dancing in your living room. Records are music's version of the local vegetable stand and farm-to-table food. It's as good as it gets. Digital music files are like facsimile autographs and frozen pizza.

And much like frozen pizza has its place (especially at 2am), AI will no doubt become a regular source for sports information. Let's just hope it's never more than niche. Everything in moderation, eh?

The Tackle Box Fishing Report

By Ken Lamb
Contributing Writer

Stripers are in the bay and rivers for trollers and jiggers

A big speckled trout surprised angler Ryan Galligan off Cove Point who was catching rockfish by spotting bait schools on his depthfinder and following birds. The seven pound speck joined a couple of hefty rockfish in the ice box. There were plenty of catch and release fish too.

The reports are mixed overall.

Skilled trollers are getting plenty in the bay by chasing birds and scouting up bait and fish on the sonar. Most everyone can get their limit in the bay and rivers in the same manor. Some days you have to work, other days the fish are everywhere feeding ; you just have to put a lure in the water.

The season ends the 10th in Maryland waters.

The Potomac ends Dec.31. Two per day 20 to 31 inches.

Rotary Club Hosts Football Greats

By Dave Spigler
Contributing Writer

It felt like old times at the Rex Theatre in downtown Leonardtown on Sunday December 3rd. The 50 members of the local branch of Rotary International threw an old-fashioned football party complete with a well-known rock and roll band “One Trick Pony” and special guests Washington Redskins greats running back Larry Brown and defensive cornerback Mike Bass. And to round out the invitation list, two of the famous Redskins “Hogette” cheerleaders, “Spiggy” and “Hog Ed” appeared to add a little color and hilarity to this afternoon of fun and entertainment for the many diehard fans in attendance.

The big feature planned for this party, in addition to the appearance of the Redskins heroes Brown and Bass, was the game between the Washington Commanders and Miami Dolphins, being televised on the large Rex movie screen. And, as all the fans in attendance soon realized, showing our home team play on the big screen did not seem as much a thrill once the game started. The Commanders were flat once more and provided little for the crowd to cheer about all day. It has been a tough year. Even with the Hogettes leading the crowd in singing “Hail To The Redskins” did little to improve the team's play or fortune...

But, on a positive note, the great football guests were very approachable and friendly. Mike Bass attended with his wife and posed for photographs and provided autographs to the fans young and old all afternoon. Mike was an All Star at the University of Michigan and played in the Rose Bowl game in 1965 and the College All Star game in 1967. He gained great respect for his defensive play with the Redskins, playing in 104 consecutive games while intercepting 30 passes during his NFL career. He is best remembered for his pickup of Miami's placekicker Garo Yepremian's botched pass and returning it 49 yards to score the Redskins only points in Super Bowl VII. Mike was named one of the 70 Greatest Redskins of All Time. He was inducted into the Washington Ring of Fame in 2002.

Larry Brown came with his daughters and was a crowd favorite. He was drafted by the Redskins in 1969 and played until 1976. He ran the ball 1530 times and gained 5875 yards. He rushed for 100 yards or more 21 times. In October 1972 he ran for 190 yards against the New York Giants and in December 1973 he rushed for 4 touchdowns against the Philadelphia Eagles. Unfortunately, his career was cut short due to numerous injuries and his jersey number 43, although not officially retired by the Redskins, has never been assigned to any other member of the team. Larry is also in the Ring of Fame and is being greatly considered for selection to the NFL Hall of Fame in Canton. He is a fan favorite of the Redskin Nation and has many well wishers in his quest for selection.

The local Rotary Club is a well-respected organization of friends, neighbors and leaders who volunteer their skills and resources to resolve issues and address community needs. They do a remarkable job in raising needed funds to sustain their many projects. Over their 25-year history they have given more than $598,000 to local programs. Additionally, these members gave $20,000 to support the International Polio Plus Program to eradicate polio. Other international projects they have engaged include refurbishing computers, establishing a digital library in India and completing a project to provide safe drinking water in Honduras. Local efforts include their association with St Mary's College Annual Governor's Cup Yacht Race, the Fire/Rescue Appreciation Day, the Farm Life Festival, and highway clean-up. They have gained a reputation for marketing the very best seafood chowder at the Annual Oyster Festival. Finally, this group furnishes $1000 a year scholarship to 4 deserving high school graduates as well as providing two $1500 grants for continuing education for two teachers. These folks have a great desire to assist County students; it is a cornerstone of their annual support.

The football party was greatly enjoyed by all. The music was super, the food and drink hit the spot and the special guests were terrific. Now if the Commanders could learn to play defense and score a few touchdowns it would have been a perfect afternoon!

HSMC Names Dan Kerns New Foundation Board Member

Historic St. Mary's City (HSMC) welcomes Dan Kerns to its Foundation, the fundraising arm of the museum. Mr. Kerns has an impressive background, having served as President of the Father McKenna Center, a day shelter for homeless men in Washington D.C. He has also served as Head of School at Georgetown Visitation and has been a long-time volunteer at the McKenna Center.

Before his work at the McKenna Center, Mr. Kerns was the Academic Dean and Assistant Head of School at Georgetown Visitation Preparatory School and later became its Head of School. This was a historic moment for Georgetown Visitation, as Mr. Kerns became the first man to lead the oldest Catholic girls' school in the 13 original states, founded in 1799. As Head of School, Mr. Kerns was instrumental in leading the efforts to build Visitation's Fisher Athletic Center and its Nolan Performing Arts Center.

"When doing the due diligence for Mr. Kerns, it became obvious that he was an extraordinarily talented leader. " wrote Father William George, Chair of the HSMC Foundation, in an email. He continued, "His reputation among major professionals in the Washington D.C. business community is impeccable. He has dedicated his professional career to helping others and will be a tremendous addition."

Pete Carroccio, Chief Operating Officer of HSMCC, stated; "I have known Dan Kerns for over 30 years, and can say without equivocation that Dan is a person of the highest integrity, and he has vigorously given back to the less fortunate of the DC Community with his time and talent. Dan is the consummate Man for Others, and he brings his numerous skills and fundraising abilities to our Foundation."

Historic St. Mary's City is excited to have Mr. Kerns on board and looks forward to the valuable contributions he will make as a member of the HSMC Foundation.

St. Mary's Woman Uses 'Coffee Run' to Win $108,910

She is seventh progressive jackpot winner on FAST PLAY Home Run Riches game

A thirsty St. Mary's County woman went into a store for a cup of coffee and left with a $108,910 progressive jackpot prize won on a FAST PLAY Home Run Riches ticket bought Nov. 28.

The big winner was following her daily ritual of buying a cup of coffee on her way to work when Lottery luck arrived on the scene. She looked over at the Lottery kiosk and remembered hearing about an October FAST PLAY winner from St. Mary's County. She has followed the Home Run Riches game and decided to play since the jackpot was over $100,000. The game's progressive jackpot starts at $40,000 and increases with the sale of each ticket until a progressive jackpot-winning ticket is purchased.

"It was all because of a coffee run," she said with a smile.

One of the home plate winning numbers in the game was 24. The government worker saw one of her baseballs also had a 24, with the words "Progressive Jackpot" listed beneath instead of a prize amount.

"I didn't know how much I won, but I knew I won something," she said and then she scanned her ticket.

The Southern Maryland resident is undecided on how she is going to spend the money, but said she likes to travel.

Wawa #595 located at 701 Annapolis Road in Gambrills sold her the winning ticket. The Anne Arundel County store will receive a $1,000 bonus from the Lottery for selling a progressive jackpot-winning FAST PLAY ticket.

This win was the fourth and final progressive jackpot win on the Home Run Riches game, which closed to wrap up another great season. Also a wrap was the Home Run Riches Contestant of the Game second-chance promotion where players could enter the $5 FAST PLAY Home Run Riches tickets into My Lottery Rewards for a chance to win prizes of $500 and up.

This year's promotion also featured two $50,000 giveaways in celebration of the Maryland Lottery's 50th anniversary. Barbara Phelps Anderson of Shady Side was awarded the prize when the Orioles hit their 50th home run of the season on May 16. Karl Petro of Westminster was selected as a winner at the conclusion of the second-chance promotion in August.

County Seeks 2023 Sustainability Award Nominations

The Commissioners of St. Mary's County and the Commission on the Environment (CoE) are pleased to announce the opening of the 2023 St Mary's County Sustainability Awards nomination window. The goal of the program is to recognize outstanding St Mary's County students, restaurants, businesses, non-profits and farms for their environmental stewardship, resource conservation, innovative best practices and pollution prevention.

that would protect the edge of the shoreline and provide habitat for several aquatic organisms through the use of structural materials (rip rap, cobbles, etc.) and vegetative materials (grasses, shrubs, and wetland plugs). Low marsh plantings of Spartina alterniflora were planted at a high density to accelerate the establishment of the marsh vegetation. High marsh and coastal species were planted for further sediment stabilization, and to encourage establishment and future resilience of shoreline habitat.

Over the past five years, the CoE has been pleased with what County residents and organizations are doing in local environmental conservation. The 2022 winners of the Sustainability Award went to Southern Maryland Sierra Club and the Environmental Division, Department of Public Works, Naval Air Station Patuxent River (NAS Pax River).

Southern Maryland Sierra Club continued supporting their 1000 Trees initiative that began in 2018. However, in 2022 alone, Club volunteers planted 162 native trees in parks and sports complexes to rebuild the native tree canopy. Additionally, they planted 27 shrubs at Lexington Park Manor in a 7500 square foot Native Exhibition Garden which showcases information on native plants and alternatives to invasive species. Southern Maryland Sierra Club also demonstrated a commitment to sustainable and healthy foods by completing buildout of 36 gardens at eight locations. The pollinator-friendly gardens provide vegetables to local food pantries and provide opportunities to teach the benefits of sustainable, local gardening.

The Environmental Division of NAS Patuxent River's Public Works Department completed a shoreline restoration project along their Fishing Point shoreline. This project stabilized 960 linear feet of shoreline from further erosion. As opposed to merely restoring the shoreline, the Environmental Division worked to create a living shoreline Living shorelines have several benefits to aquatic organisms, including the Diamondback Terrapin, which have a large presence at Naval Air Station Patuxent River. Living shorelines allow aquatic organisms to adapt to rising sea levels resulting from climate change and shift their habitats inland as sea levels rise. Living shorelines help limit erosion, provide habitat for native species, purify water, buffer floods, store carbon, protect community infrastructure, and they perform better in major storms when compared to hardened shorelines, as they can adapt to changing water levels and intense storms.

The Commission on the Environment wants YOU to be a 2023 winner! Know of a worthy organization or do you belong to a group that pursues environmental stewardship, resource conservation, innovative best practices, and pollution prevention efforts? Nominate someone else or nominate your organization. All nominees for the 2023 calendar year should demonstrate an impressive commitment to improving local environmental impacts.

Santa Claus to Visit SoMD Courtesy of the U.S. Navy

Good boys and girls of all ages across Southern Maryland should look to the skies as Adm. Santa Claus conducts pre-deployment mission planning over Southern Maryland on Friday, Dec. 15, between 2:30-4:30 p.m.

Saint Nicholas—also known by call sign “Claus”—will fly with elves and other holiday helpers from Air Test and Evaluation Squadron (HX) 21 aboard an MH-60S Knighthawk helicopter. During the flight, Claus will spread holiday cheer while conducting reconnaissance and last-minute list-checking for upcoming operations on Christmas Eve. Children are advised to be on their best behavior.

While exact flight plans are classified, Claus and the HX-21 crew will fly over local sites and neighborhoods, including Naval Air Station Patuxent River, Chesapeake Ranch Estate, Solomons Island, Town Creek, Esperanza Farms, St. Mary's County Airport, Leonardtown, Wildewood, Chancellor's Run, Lexington Park, Cedar Cove and more.

As Rudolph will not be part of the reconnaissance flight, inclement weather could impact flight operations. If inclement weather is expected for Dec. 15, Adm. Claus may reschedule the flight for Thursday, Dec. 14, at the same time. Stay up-to-date on Santa Over Southern Maryland on the Naval Air Warfare Center Aircraft Division's Facebook page.

HX-21 is a component of Naval Test Wing Atlantic, the test wing for Naval Air Warfare Center Aircraft Division. Nicknamed the “Blackjacks,” the squadron provides developmental flight test and evaluation for all U.S. Navy and Marine Corps rotary-wing and tilt-rotor aircraft. The Blackjacks are personal favorites of Claus, who tries to visit his HX-21 friends every year. Naval Air Station Patuxent River has been home to HX-21 since 1949.

Noise Advisory: NAS Pax River Conducting Nighttime Flights through January 31

Communities surrounding the naval air station are advised that noise-generating nighttime testing events are scheduled to take place December 04, 2023 through January 31, 2024 from 5 p.m. through 10 p.m. nightly. Pilots at NAS Pax River will be conducting night departures and landings, essential training for the precision and safety of our pilots and the success of their mission. Residents may notice increased noise levels due to these operations.

As with all operations, NAS Patuxent River takes precautions to lessen the impact of testing activities on the community. For more information, call 1-866-819-9028. To view all current NAS PAX noise advisories please click the following link: <https://www.cnic.navy.mil/PaxRiverNoise>.

Judge Amy Lorenzini Honored with Leader in the Law Award

St. Mary's County Judge Amy Lorenzini was named as one of the 2023 Leaders in the Law by the Maryland Daily Record. The prestigious award is bestowed upon less than 40 legal professionals in the State of Maryland each year.

“This year's Leaders in Law winners are incredible leaders who devote their time and talents to the legal profession and to the communities in which they live and work. The honorees work in a variety of roles in the legal profession, from ADR to support staff, law firm innovators, justice champions and more,” Suzanne Fischer-Huettner, managing director of The Daily Record/BridgeTower Media. “We at The Daily Record and our event partner, the Maryland State Bar Association, congratulate this year's honorees for all they have accomplished.”

Judge Amy Lorenzini was appointed by Governor Larry Hogan to the St. Mary's County Circuit Court bench in May of 2022. Before she was appointed as a judge, she worked for 20 years as an attorney in Southern Maryland. During that time, she was a law clerk to the Honorable Marvin Kaminetz, a criminal prosecutor in the St. Mary's County State's Attorney's Office, and a general practice litigator in the areas of civil and criminal litigation. She was regularly appointed by the courts throughout Maryland to represent individuals in guardianship matters, adoption, and custody cases.

Judge Lorenzini has a long-standing commitment to both the legal and local community. She served as chairperson of the Local Pro Bono Committee for over 10 years, screening pro bono cases and placing clients with volunteer attorneys and has served on the State Pro Bono Committee for the past 2 years. She initiated and ran a pro bono clinic for family law litigants for over 10 years and has recently initiated a guardianship clinic in St. Mary's County.

Lorenzini has been a “bar leader” throughout her career as a lawyer, wrote Laurence Cumberland. Judge Lorenzini has been a member of the Executive Committee and Board of Governors with the Maryland State Bar Association and has been the president of the local bar association on two occasions. In her role as president of the bar association, Judge Lorenzini organized the bar's involvement with Christmas in April for ten years and coordinated ten different housing projects between the bar and the Christmas in April organization.

Judge Lorenzini resides in St. Mary's County with her husband and two children.

Tickets also include full admission to the museum, lighthouse, and historic park.

Tickets are $12 per child, ages 2 to 12. Tickets are required and can be purchased online at CountdownToNoon.eventbrite.com. Up to two adults/guardians (18 and older) may accompany their child but must register for a free ticket via the Eventbrite link above. No walk-ins will be accepted due to limited space. Please note: this event is appropriate for ages 2 to 12; children 13-17 are not permitted.

Though much of this event will take place indoors, guests should come prepared for the weather and the outdoor ball drop. The Maritime Building can get a little chilly, so sweaters are recommended. Socks are a must for the “sock skate” and will be available for purchase if needed. Children cannot be left unattended and must always be supervised by a parent or guardian.

“We are excited to offer this opportunity for kids to enjoy New Year's Eve while learning a little bit at the museum and having lots of fun,” said Karen Stone, Manager of the St. Mary's County Museum Division. “And they don't even need to stay up until midnight to do it – just noon!”

The main museum building will be open for restroom use and gift shop purchases.

A solution for road safety

In November, 38 people died in Maryland as a result of motor vehicle crashes. In our State there have been 554 fatalities including 135 pedestrians and 15 bicyclists. This is a 7.6% increase compared to the same time in 2022. Our State is projected to record more than 600 motor vehicle crash fatalities this year.

It is important to note that distracted driving and a law that allows bicyclists to use the road is a deadly combination. For some reason, when a sidewalk is present bicyclists are not required to use it. Therefore, they take their chances with distracted drivers. As distracted driving increases unabated, so will fatalities of bicyclists, pedestrians and operators of other vehicles and the distracted driver.

The State Regional Highway Safety Committee, now based outside of St. Mary's County has done little to nothing to properly address this problem. This is totally unacceptable. This results in more injuries and loss of life. Someone has to step up to the plate and do something about it. Time is not on our side before the next injury or death occurs. Distracted driving, mainly caused by Cell phone use is out of control. Our County should form a County Highway Safety Board to address the injuries and fatalities on our roads. There is a solution. But, first you have to address the problem in order to come up with the solution.

Firearms and Drug Cache Seized in Lexington Park

Through a joint investigation conducted by the St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office Criminal Investigations Division and the Calvert County Sheriff's Office Drug Enforcement Unit, a search and seizure warrant was executed Wednesday, November 29, 2023, at an apartment in the 46000 block of Hilton Drive, Lexington Park, MD; the resident of the apartment was previously identified as 21-year-old Adam Joseph Holland.

During the search, detectives found a loaded privately made AR-15 pistol and a loaded Glock 29 semi-automatic handgun with obliterated serial numbers. Additionally, a large quantity of cannabis and US currency, and multiple items indicative of drug distribution, were found.

Just before the execution of the residential search warrant by detectives, the Calvert County Sheriff's Office, who previously obtained a search and seizure warrant for Mr. Holland's person and vehicle, initiated a traffic stop on Holland in Calvert County. During the search of Mr. Holland and his vehicle, additional suspected cannabis was found. Holland was then released to the custody of the St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office.

Holland, who is prohibited from possessing regulated firearms due to a previous disqualifying conviction, was transported to the St. Mary's County Detention and Rehabilitation Center, where he was charged with the following:

- CDS - Possession of Firearm
- Regulated Firearm Illegal Possession
- Illegal Possession of Ammunition
- Knowingly Alter Firearm ID Number
- CDS Possession Intent to Distribute Cannabis
- CDS Possession Cannabis over Civil Use

The St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office extends appreciation to the Calvert County Sheriff's Office for its collaborative work on this case.

9mm handgun. The juvenile was arrested and transported to the St. Mary's County Detention and Rehabilitation Center and charged as an adult for various gun violations and Burglary in the fourth degree.

The other two juveniles were charged through non-custodial apprehension for burglary in the fourth degree and released into the custody of a guardian.

The St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office Alcohol Enforcement Unit recently conducted a series of alcohol compliance checks at 16 St. Mary's County businesses. Fifteen of the establishments were found to follow Maryland State laws regarding age verification for a person attempting to purchase alcohol; one business failed to ask an underage person for identification.

The compliance checks were conducted on Tuesday, November 28, 2023, by the St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office Alcohol Enforcement Unit. They involved using a Sheriff's Office confidential informant, 18 years old, wearing jeans and an athletic sweatshirt. The underage individual was informed to enter the business and request to purchase an alcoholic beverage.

Overall, 16 businesses were visited, and 15 were found to comply with Maryland law and asked for the required identification from the underage person. One business failed to ask for identification, and the underage individual was able to purchase an alcoholic beverage.

The following businesses asked for identification from the underage individual:

Fight Brings Police Response to Great Mills High School

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

Several fights that broke out near the end of the instructional day at Great Mills High School brought a halt to normal school operations there Nov. 30 as school and law enforcement officials tried to bring it under control.

School officials said no students were seriously injured but parents were angered by another large-scale fight breaking out at the school.

In September of last year, a similar brawl broke out that brought a massive police response to break up the melee.

Initial reports stated that as many as 20 to 30 students were involved in several melees throughout the school in this week's incident.

"After lunch, several altercations happened in different areas of the building and due to the locations, this spread staffing very thin, making it difficult to know who all were involved," wrote BeeJay Dothard, principal at Great Mills, in a letter to parents. "Unfortunately, these altercations caused a major disruption to the school resulting in students being unable to reach their [seventh] period class.

"In order to ensure the safety of all students, we made the decision to request additional police assistance. This was done to provide a safe and secure environment for everyone."

Dothard said in his letter that students had to be held in their seventh period class for a brief time before being released to continue on with their day.

"We are continuing to investigate this situation to understand the cause to work to prevent situations like this in the future," Dothard continued. "This type of behavior not only affects those involved, but all of those who witness it too, and will not be tolerated.

"We will use the SMCPS Student Code of Conduct to issue severe consequences."

One parent who kept her two children out of class the following day said she did so because she was not confident that school authorities were able to move fast enough to find and suspend all of those who were involved in the fighting.

"I was afraid to send them," said Nicole Bryan, who said she heard early reports that a gun or knife had been involved in the brawl and that someone might have even been stabbed. "This is not something we should take lightly."

Leading up to the Thursday brawl, Bryan said she had been watching anonymously posted video recordings of fights breaking out at the high school for the past two weeks.

She said the feeling of impending violence and fear at the school was pervasive. "You're coming out of the classroom and then, 'boom,' you're running for your life," she said.

She said she and other parents were "in a frenzy" trying to find out what was going on at the school and whether they should come and get their children.

"I just had to pause and pray," Bryan said. "I do that every day."

She said the problem also stems from parents of students and the students themselves who are involved in the fighting who won't take accountability.

"No one wants to talk," she said. "So, we never get anywhere."

"This has to stop."

County Distributing Free Computers This Weekend

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

The St. Mary's County government is encouraging residents who are eligible to come to the Potomac Building in Leonardtown Dec. 9 to collect a free Chromebook laptop computer for free while supplies last.

The distribution event will take place from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Households which participate in certain government assistance programs such as:

Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), formerly known as food stamps, Medicaid, Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) Supplemental Security Income (SSI), Federal Public Housing Assistance (FPHA), Veterans Pension and Survivors Benefit, Free and Reduced-Price School Lunch Program or School Breakfast Program, including at U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Community Eligibility Provision schools or received a federal Pell Grant in the current award year

Those seeking a free computer must show proof of Maryland residency.

The program for delivering free laptops to qualified residents began earlier this year when the county was able to get state-level grant funding to purchase the computers.

The Office of Statewide Broadband notified the county that their request for 4,500 devices had been granted with a value of $894,375.00 along with $27,000 to support the device distribution to eligible households.

Of the 4,500 devices that were available, 4,281 have already been given out.

The county engaged in the program believing that the successful expansions of network infrastructure would be greatly enhanced by providing computer equipment to households with limited financial resources; the county has spent millions of dollars in the past several years to expand internet infrastructure — such as underground cable — in the so called "middle mile" and "last mile" programs.

These programs are designed to extend internet service to residents who live in remote sections of the county, typically with unusually driveways, without such infrastructure that is too expensive for them to pay for on their own.

The COVID-19 pandemic brought into sharp focus the need for families to be connected to the internet as students retreated to their homes for virtual learning; those that were economically disadvantaged sometimes found themselves without the ability to connect to on-line learning.

Charter School Applications Open

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

The application process for parents to get a spot for their children at the county's only charter school — Chesapeake Charter School — is now open.

The charter school offers a unique learning curriculum that differs from more traditional public schools but still remains a part of the county school system under the governance of a parent organization, but still answerable to the St. Mary's County Board of Education.

Much of the learning at the school has a strong focus on the arts, creativity and environmental stewardship programs along with traditional academic subjects including mathematics, science and language arts.

The school system is advising all interested families that they must fill out applications online at cpcapplication.com during the open enrollment period. This includes all siblings who were waitlisted in the 2023/2024 school year. For the 2024-2025 school year, the online application link closes at midnight on December 31.

The school is holding an informational session for parents Dec. 12 at their location on Great Mills Road.

Parents will also be able to view this information session on the website <https://schools.smcps.org/cpcs/charter-school/admissions>.

All applications must be completed online, according to the school system. The order in which the application is submitted does not impact the selection process, however.

It does not matter whether a family submits an application on the first day or the last day since the lottery is a random, computer-based drawing. The application is available in multiple languages, the school system reported.

The official lottery will be conducted at the end of January next year.

Kindergarten families will be notified by email upon completing the lottery of their acceptance or waitlist status. All other families of students in grades 1-8 will receive an email about their waitlist status and will be offered seats as they become open through the summer months.

School Enrollment Down Slightly

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

More parents are homeschooling their children in St. Mary's County, school system staff reported to the county board of education last week and that means that the system will continue to see near stagnant funding from the state.

"For the last decade... we've had very consistent enrollment," said Superintendent Dr. J. Scott Smith at the Nov. 29 school board meeting. "Home instruction is up by about 400 students."

The projected 2024 enrollment in public schools is 16,698; this year's is 16,853.

In 2022 the school enrollment was 16,714; the 10-year high was in 2020 with 17,137 students.

"We have a really stable [student] population," Smith said. "Unfortunately, it doesn't lead to any kind of increase in funding."

The question of where students went due to declining enrollment was one Smith said he was often asked.

"Well, they went home," Smith said. "Parents are making decisions to educate their children at home."

The school system was expected to get an increase in funding from the state by just 1.7 percent, Smith said, for next fiscal year.

"I don't know about you but I look around the world around us and it seems like things are a little more than 1.7 percent more expensive than they were last year," Smith said.

"The consumer price index (CPI) is going up by 3.5 percent," said Tammy McCourt, deputy superintendent for finance.

Smith said the state is pushing hundreds of millions of dollars into school systems as part of its Blue Print for Education program to boost student performance but only to certain cadres of students — those who are economically disadvantaged or requiring special educational needs, for example.

Piney Point Improvement Funds Approved

Piney Point Lighthouse Museum Pier

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

The state's Board of Public Works recently approved a $1.9 million grant to stop shoreline erosion in Piney Point, Commissioner Mike Hewitt announced this week, a long-standing, major complaint of residents there, he said.

Many residents there believe, Hewitt said, that the continual erosion of the beach near the county-owned lighthouse museum is because of another public works project there installed about a decade ago.

"This has been a contentious issue down there," Hewitt said. "A hardening of the point... putting in all the rock down there, that is caused the erosion process."

The county has spent about $30,000 in the past 10 years fixing the problem, Hewitt said, with some "marginal" success.

"This is a good grant," Hewitt said of the state money coming down to provide a more permanent solution to the problem.

"I believe it will be a benefit to that area."

He said the county would continue to monitor the situation at the revetment to be built there for at least three years, if not longer, to ensure the erosion was being curtailed.

"We're hopeful it will actually return the beach to where it was," Hewitt said.

The commissioners also approved an attempt to get a much smaller amount of money from the state to make further repairs to the pier at the museum.

Arthur Shepherd, director of the Departments of Recreation and Parks, said a portion of the pier had been ripped up by storm winds and that staff had found funds that would pay for it without any cost to the county.

The price tag is $10,000; the damage occurred during foul weather Oct. 29, according to county planning documents, effecting a 10-foot-by-12-foot section of pier that collapsed.

Leaders Want to Educate Governor on St. Mary's

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

Gov. Wes Moore is scheduled to visit the Mother County Dec. 11, his second such visit since his inauguration and local leaders want to make the most of his coming here.

Commissioner Eric Colvin said Moore's time here next Monday will be limited, with conversations between the governor and the commissioners, a visit to the county health department as well as a stop at the Tobacco Barn Distillery in Mechanicsville.

"He's the governor and we definitely want him to see St. Mary's County," Colvin told The County Times. "We've had some discussions around his time with us."

Colvin said leaders here want to discuss the challenges that St. Mary's faces, especially with transportation issues.

"Mainly that's going to be the Solomons [Gov. Thomas Johnson] Bridge," Colvin said. "We've seen where there are more requests by his administration to make more cuts to the state's transportation projects."

"We're already underfunded."

Dr. Meena Brewster, the county's Chief Health Officer, was looking forward to the governor's visit.

"We are thrilled to welcome Governor Moore to St. Mary's County next Monday and look forward to his attendance at a private event showcasing our School-Based Health Centers," Brewster said. "This visit provides an invaluable opportunity to spotlight our achievements, share our vision for the future of the health department and public health in Maryland, and reinforce our dedication to advancing the well-being of our community."

"I look forward to engaging in a meaningful dialogue with the governor."

The GOP-majority county voted overwhelmingly against Moore, a Democrat, in his bid for governor and it remains far outside the circles of influence and power in Annapolis.

Still, Moore has pledged that his administration would "leave no Marylander behind" in its application of resources around the state.

One of the first actions Moore took as governor was to revoke the contract held by the long-time nursing and medical care provider at Charlotte Hall Veterans Home for its substandard Medicare ratings and allegations of abuse and neglect against the patients residing there.

Moore's administration has brought on a new provider, South Carolina-based Pruitt Health, to begin the process of restoring proper care there.

Anthony Woods, state secretary of Veterans Affairs, has said progress there is slow and steady, but it will take years to bring the facility, which is home to more than 200 veterans, back to a top-tier

Medicare rating.

Moore attended Thanksgiving celebrations at the veterans home and helped serve dinner and visit with the residents.

Apparently, a visit to Patuxent River Naval Air Station, the county's main economic driver and one of the most important military installations in the nation, is not on the governor's itinerary, Colvin said.

The Naval Air Systems Command (NAVAIR), which calls the base home, does approximately $40 billion in defense acquisitions each year while other tenant commands and program offices research, develop, test and evaluate naval aviation technologies and aircraft before use in the fleet.

The navy's Test Pilot School is also based there.

"I would love to be able to do that [take Moore on the base]," Colvin said. "But I don't think he has the time."

"I'll consider this meeting successful if the governor comes away with a better understanding of the importance of St. Mary's County and what it does for the state."

Del. Matt Morgan (R-Dist. 29A) said the commissioners should use the opportunity to ask Moore about the increase in crime that is proving to be a growing problem.

"That's becoming a bigger problem, even for us in St. Mary's County," Morgan said. "And then there are budgeting concerns like education [the Blueprint for Education]"

"How are we going to pay for that?"

Morgan said there are any number of questions that commissioners could and should ask.

"They can also ask if the governor drove down in an electric vehicle," Morgan said.

Moore has set a stringent goal for the state to move to no more gas-powered cars being sold here in the next few years; St. Mary's will also soon be constrained to buy only electric powered school buses.

Morgan said that many of Moore's policies are unpopular, sometimes deeply so, in St. Mary's, which is politically deep red.

"There are a lot of questions they could ask him, but I'm sure they'll ask him for a wish list of projects," Morgan said. "They should ask him about being forced into some of the environmental requirements that aren't popular in this area or even sustainable right now."

Morgan said the commissioners should take the time to confront the governor on some of those unpopular policies.

"They have the chance to tell him exactly why he lost this county," Morgan said. "His policies aren't popular down here because they don't work."

"I don't think they'll take the time to do that but they should."

St. Mary's College Alumni Gives Back with Largest Ever Donation

By Guy Leonard
Staff Writer

R. Scott Raspa, an alumni of St. Mary's College of Maryland, said he wants to give back to the institution that has given him so much.

Having made his fortune in the high technology industry working for companies such as Oracle and IBM as a sales executive and creating software and hardware solutions for years, he and his husband have decided to gift the college $4 million in their estate planning.

It's the largest such gift in the college's history.

The money is there, Raspa told The County Times, and is waiting for his passing to go to his alma mater.

He and his spouse, John M. Staples, designated a total of $4 million between the endowment and the R. Scott Raspa and John M. Staples Scholarship Endowed Fund.

"It'll always be there for St. Mary's College," Raspa said, noting that the money had a special purpose.

When he went to the college decades ago he was specializing in mathematics and computer science on campus but quickly got opportunities to use his training in a practical setting at the Naval Air Test Center (NATC) at the Patuxent River Naval Air Station.

It was the 1980s, he said, he found himself working in the field of aviation technology. "I'm the product of experiential training," Raspa said, adding that he got college credit while working at NATC.

This led him to work at world-reaching, international companies that are still technology giants.

"It was a huge step for me working for me, working with the big boys at IBM," said Raspa.

His contribution to the college will help it continue its LEAD program, which aims to essentially replicate the type of experience Raspa had, a liberal arts education paired with practical, marketable experience to make them ready for the job market upon graduation.

The program is a signature piece of the reforms brought to the institution by Dr.

Tuajuanda Jordan, college president.

"We're trying to make that door open for everyone," Raspa said. "They'll be winners if they get that opportunity." Liberal arts colleges sometimes face the criticism of producing students who lack practical skills; Raspa disagrees, saying that technically skilled students often times are not as skilled in dealing with others or with coming up with creative ideas in business.

"Technical people without the liberal arts balancing things out are the ones who couldn't conceptualize or see the big picture," said Raspa of his business experiences.

The college's LEAD program aims to find that balance, Raspa said, which is why he supports it so strongly.

"I think it will help our college be the college of choice," he said.

In September 2020, Raspa began his term with the SMCM Foundation Board of Directors and currently serves as treasurer. He is also a member of the LEAD Campaign Steering Committee.

Raspa lives in Arlington, Virginia, but hails from St. Mary's County. He has two alumni siblings, Joseph A. Raspa '84 (deceased) and Anthony E. Raspa '92. Both his mother, Myra S. Raspa who also received her degree from the College in 1986, and his father, Salvatore Raspa, EdDm who also served as the chair of the St. Mary's County Board of Education, are lifelong educators.

He is also a product of the St. Mary's Public School System.
